

New York, June 11, 2001, Marion Maneker, "The King James Version," pp. 42, 44-45.

New York Times, June 14, 2001, Martin Arnold, "Fair Game: A Critic's Book," review of The Catsitters, p. B3; June 28, 2001, Janet Maslin, "Books of the Times: Men Who Are Out of It: Physically, Mentally, Socially" (includes a review of The Catsitters), p. B9.

New York Times Book Review, June 24, 2001, Laura Miller, "Heavy Petting," review of The Catsitters, p. 5.

Publishers Weekly, October 5, 1998, John F. Baker, "The Cat Seat," review of The Catsitters, p. 20; May 7, 2001, review of The Catsitters, p. 219.

Wall Street Journal, July 2, 2001, Merle Rubin, "Bookshelf: Dating Hazards, Pentagon Wars, Baffling Bijoux," p. A12.

Washington Post Book World, June 17, 2001, "Cries and Whiskers," review of The Catsitters, p. T08.

ONLINE

BookPage, <http://www.bookpage.com/> (January 13, 2002), Michael Paulson, review of The Catsitters.

HarperCollins, <http://www.harpercollins.com/> (January 13, 2002), "James Wolcott" (interview).*

* * *

WOOD, E. Thomas 1963-

PERSONAL: Born October 9, 1963, in Nashville, TN; married Nicki Pendleton (a food writer and cookbook editor), October 21, 1989; children: Violet Eloise Pendleton. Education: Attended University of Leeds, 1984-85; Vanderbilt University, B.A., 1986; Pembroke College, Cambridge, M.Phil., 2002.

ADDRESSES: Home and office—Cambridge European Associates, 56 Canterbury St., Cambridge CB4 3QF, England. E-mail—tom@the-wood-family.org.

CAREER: Freelance writer, 1984-90; Bank Director, Brentwood, TN, founding editor, 1990-93; Tennessean, Nashville, TN, business and investigative reporter, 1993-95; Eagle Communications, Inc., president, publisher and editor, 1997-99; Cambridge

European Associates, Cambridge, England, affiliate. Tennessee Commission on Holocaust Education, member of board of directors, 1998—.

AWARDS, HONORS: Holocaust research grant, City of New York, 1996; Gold Medal, City and Regional Magazine Association, 1999, for Nashville Life.

WRITINGS:

(With Stanislaw M. Jankowski) Karski: How One Man Tried to Stop the Holocaust, John Wiley and Sons (New York, NY), 1994.

(Editor, with John Egerton) Nashville: An American Self-Portrait (essays and photographs), Beaten Biscuit Press, 2001.

Author of a business book column, "BookPage," 1999-2000. Contributor to periodicals, including New York Times and Wall Street Journal. Editor and publisher of Nashville Life and Business Nashville, 1997-99.

WORK IN PROGRESS: Research on police responses to anarchist violence in England and France in the 1890s; research on the early history of British secret agencies (Special Branch and MI5).

BIOGRAPHICAL AND CRITICAL SOURCES:PERIODICALS

Commonweal, April 5, 1996, Eugene J. Fisher, review of Karski: How One Man Tried to Stop the Holocaust, p. 35.

Law Institute Journal, September, 1996, Evy Papadopoulos, review of Karski, p. 84.

New Statesman and Society, January 27, 1995, Amanda Hopkinson, review of Karski, p. 33.

Slavonic and East European Review, April, 1996, John P. Fox, review of Karski, p. 351.

Times Literary Supplement, May 5, 1995, Michael Burleigh, review of Karski, p. 8.

* * *

WOOLEVER, Cynthia A. 1954-

PERSONAL: Born November 3, 1954, in Miami, OK; daughter of John E. and Pauline F. Woolever. Ethnicity: "White." Education: Phillips University, B.S., 1977; Indiana University, M.S., 1979, Ph.D., 1983. Politics: Democrat. Religion: Presbyterian.